Virtual Safety Training

As companies navigate through this pandemic, and even as their seems to be a faint light at the end of a long tunnel, in-person training is as important now as it was before the pandemic was declared. The way the training is conducted has had to change. The switch from in-person classes to virtual classes conducted in real time, led by an Instructor in real time...There are many designations for training conducted as virtual classes in real time, led by an Instructor in real time, with none of the class pre-recorded except for short video clips used as part of the training. The generic term is "zoom"

Business Continuity Planning

What happens when business is disrupted? It has lost revenues plus extra expenses which means reduced profits and business insurance doesn't cover all the costs. Businesses may lose customers...because disrupted businesses can't provide customers with what the customers are wanting in the schedule that they are wanting...To ensure the business can continue to operate with minimal interruptions...
