Updating Your Infectious Disease
Preparedness and Response Plan

The world has come upon the one-year anniversary of the World Health Organization (WHO) declaring the world was in a public health emergency due to SARS-Cov-2, the virus that causes COVID-19, and everything stopped and/or shut-down...

Now, after a year or more into the pandemic, many companies that were able to open back up trying to follow the guidance from the CDC and OSHA and loosely developing a "plan" to continue operations needs to review that plan or write down the plan for future use and possibly an OSHA regulation for pandemic protection or more accurately an infectious disease preparedness and prevention plan...

Industry

West Virginia University Safety and Health Extension, using an OSHA Susan Harwood Training Grant, has developed a training course titled HandSAFE, a 4-hour training course centered on struck-by and caught-between hazards, job safety analysis, hand and finger injuries, and hazard assessments created for the high-hazard oil and gas industry.
