Office Ergonomics after COVID-19

It is predicted that, after the pandemic, as a hybrid workplace is instituted allowing workers to split time working remotely and, in the office, that as many as 50% of office workers will be sharing workspaces (desks, office, and/or cubicles). This sharing has the potential to expose workers to ergonomic hazards that could cause ergonomic injuries.

It will be necessary to make the workspaces adjustable and adaptable so that 90% of the workers can use the workspace. This will include...Read More...

Duquesne University SBDC Hosts a Safety Webinar for Small Businesses

The Duquesne University Small Business Development Corporation (SBDC) recently hosted a webinar on workplace safety and injury prevention. The webinar was focused specifically on small businesses. The webinar included a basic review of information including how workplace injuries cost small businesses money and decreases profits as well as how injury prevention is key to protecting workers and profits. Topics included:

- Workers' comp EMR and injury costs
- Inspections of the workplace
- OSHA regulations
- OSHA compliance assistance & consultations
- Safety Committees

The webinar was recorded & is available here.
