As we are getting ready for the last quarter of 2021 and looking ahead to 2022, making plans, setting safety and business goals, and identifying safety and business objectives for 2022, one item to consider is that of the annual training required by OSHA regulations. We can work in the last quarter of 2021 to get caught up on our annual training...Read More!

Plastics Industry Safety Report

In the August 09, 2021, edition of Plastics News, there was a Special Report: Workplace Safety titled "A Look Into Workplace Deaths and the Aftermath" discussing the number of deaths in plastics processing factories based upon a review of OSHA records from 2011 through 2020 that showed, at least, 60 people died in industrial accidents in the plastics processing industry. The report describes three incidents. Read More!
